EUROPEAN COUNTRIES UNITE TO STAMP OUT TERRORISM

England and Switzerland Not In the Movement. --- Warrant Not Necessary for Russian Police

(Bulletin Special.)

St. Petersburg, Sept. 14.—Europe, excepting Switzerland and England, has united in a movement to stamp out terrorism. In future the Russian secret police will be allowed to seize terrorists without warrants in all countries which have agreed to the new pact. Belgium has promised to expel terrorists.

At Warsaw Col. Jackoff, chief of the transfer prison, was shot and killed last night, while driving in a cab. The assassin escaped.

At Odessa anti-Jewish agitation is rife. Wall spaces, sides of houses and telegraph poles throughout the city have been plastered with a proclamation issued by the union of Russian people "urging patriots to combine to exterminate the Jews." This action has aroused the gravest apprehension among the peacefully inclined, both Jews and Christians. It is reported here that the Jewish town of Koopin, in the district of Kamenetz has been burned down by peasants from the surrounding country. Some of the inhabitants are said to have been killed in flight, while many perished in the flames.

Warsaw is quiet, the authorities are suppressing every slightest attempt to start anti-Jewish attacks. On account of the large German interests in the banks and commerce of Warsaw, German intervention is feared in case of serious disorder.

Leprosy Hereditary But Curable

Washington, Sept. 13.—After displaying a rare heroism by the devotion of a lifetime to the study of leprosy, Eugene H. Plummer, American consul at Maracaibo, Venezuela, has decided that the dread malady is not contagious but is hereditary to a degree not reached by any other disease. He has made an exhaustive report to the state department, telling of his personal attendance upon leprosy affected in the most revolting form. His report indicates that leprosy is curable, but that there is little hope in Venezuela or other Latin American leprosy colonies, where nutritious foods and expensive drugs are rarely provided.

AWFUL SCENES AT THE WRECK

Passengers Tell of Heart Rendering
Sights at the Alzida Smash

(Bulletin Special.)

Toronto, Sept. 13.—A number of the passengers on the Imperial Limited, which crashed into the special at Sudbury, causing the death of fourteen persons and injuries to many more, arrived in Toronto today and tell graphic tales of the wreck.

Mrs. Carter, of Vancouver, describes the scene as horrible, and one that will never be effaced from her memory. The cries of the injured were terrible to hear, the dead and dying lying everywhere among the wreckage. Mrs. Victor A. Thatcher, of Morpeth, Ont., says the scene was altogether too awful to describe. The opinion is expressed by many of the passengers that a heavy car of fire attached to the Imperial Limited, was the only thing that saved the east bound train from a bad wreck as it received the worst of the shock, thus saving the rest of the train.

INVESTIGATION ORDERED
Ottawa, Sept. 14.—The railway commission will lose no time in causing a searching inquiry into the disastrous wreck on the Canadian Pacific at Alzida, near Sudbury. Mr. E. C. Lalonde, inspector of railway accidents, who is at present out of the city, has been instructed by telegram to proceed without delay to conduct an investigation. Sudbury, Sept. 13.—Samuel A. Kingston, who was reported seriously injured internally and whose leg was broken in the Alzida accident, died this morning at Sudbury hospital.

Montreal, Sept. 14.—A despatch from Sudbury, states that the last of the unknown victims of Wednesday's disaster on the C. P. R. at Alzida had been tentatively identified. It being supposed that he was E. May of Winfield, Ont. This has not been definitely determined despite the efforts of the C. P. R. officials.

Democratic Ticket

New York, Sept. 14.—In a harmonious and enthusiastic final session in Carnegie Hall, the state convention of the Independence League put into the field a straight ticket of state officers to be voted for at the coming election. Delegates cheered for 33 minutes when Mr. Hearst appeared on the platform to make a brief speech of acceptance. State officers: For Governor, William R. Hearst of New York; for Lieut.-Gov., Lewis Stuyvesant Chandler, of Dutchess; for Sec. of State, John S. Whelan, of Monroe; for State Treas., Geo. A. Fuller, of Jefferson; for Comptroller, Dr. C. H. W. Auel, of Erie; for State Engineer and Surveyor, Frank L. Getman, of Tompkins; for Attorney-General, John Ford, of New York.

GET ORIENTAL FLOUR MARKET

John A. Macdougall Predicts Enormous Trade Between Alberta and Hong Kong When G.T.P. is Completed

John A. Macdougall is back in his office today after five months and a half of a tour around the world and this morning gave the Bulletin quite an interesting little story of his travels.

Like every other Canadian who has travelled in the Orient, Mr. Macdougall is enthusiastic about the possibilities of a Canadian Asiatic trade.

"Edmonton and Calgary are going to get the flour trade of China. I am thoroughly convinced of this and I do not think there is room for a shadow of doubt about it."

"If I were in the flour milling business I would pay all attention to China, would send a man there who understood his business, keep a stock on hand and prepare to do business on as large a scale as the prospects of trade warranted."

Mr. Macdougall says that Edmonton's day of pre-eminence in the flour trade comes when the Grand Trunk Pacific is built through to the coast. Previous to that Edmonton could ship flour to the Orient, but at a disadvantage that would probably take away a large part of the profit, the route via Calgary and the C.P.R. being too long and too expensive.

Mr. Macdougall explains his preference for China over Japan as a possible field for the flour trade by pointing out that the Japanese Government is intensely protectionist and that Japan is colonizing Manchuria with the idea of growing her own wheat. The Japanese Government is meeting with great success in the colonization and in a very few years there will be no market for foreign flour in Japan.

With China, however, the case is altogether different. The Chinese government is not a protectionist government, and the Chinese have no large wheat areas to open up. Moreover the possible market in China is far greater than that of Japan and the Chinese as much as the Japanese are learning to eat flour. If first class demonstrators were employed, Mr. Macdougall says, to go about in China attending their fairs and such gatherings and showing how Canadian flour should be used an immediate and very extensive market would spring up. The possibilities of this market are practically unlimited and almost inconceivable. All the wheat of Alberta could go there without naturally affecting it.

At the present time, nearly all the flour used in Japan and China is America flour, milled in Tacoma and grown in the Palouse County, Washington. It is a soft wheat flour and not as good as the Canadian flour from Alberta for bread making, but unfortunately the Japanese and Chinese do not make bread to any great extent, but use the flour for making little cakes and things of that description, for which the soft wheat flour does as well as the hard wheat, and consequently the Alberta flour will be handicapped for a while as it will be necessary for the Orient housewife to learn the mystery of making good old-fashioned home-made bread before they will be able to appreciate the superiority of Alberta hard wheat flour and be willing to pay the higher price. This is where the necessity of the demonstration comes in.

Mr. Macdougall says there is a great market ready for development for Alberta butter in Japan and China, especially Japan. While in Japan he became thoroughly convinced that the stories that have been told of the progress of the Japs are more than true. At the town of Osaka, where he spent some little time, they have a regular Oriental market. Immense quantities of work with lowering smokestacks, huge works owned by Japanese capital and operated by Japanese workmen and products not only for Japan, but for China and many other countries, a few years ago there were hundreds of European mechanics employed, now there are practically none. The Japs have learned the science of manufacture and they are doing the work themselves. Every factory is working to the limit of its capacity, they are having one of the greatest industrial booms in the history of the world. New industries are springing up on every hand, and the whole country is going ahead by leaps and bounds.

Compared with the Chinese, there is one characteristic in which the Japs appear to a great disadvantage. That

WHALERS SAFE AT HIRSHELL ISLAND

Rev. J. A. Whittaker, wife and daughter, of Hirschell Island N.W.T. arrived in the city last night after five years spent in the extreme far north, where he has been laboring as a missionary among the Esquimaux.

Mr. Whittaker brings a great list of interesting news from the far north. For one thing, he sets at rest any uncertainty as to the fate of the whalers who were frozen in the Arctic Ocean and whom it was reported in Seattle were starving to death. Five whalers, Mr. Whittaker reports, wintered at Hirschell Island. These were the Bayhead, in three years, the Karluk, in two years and Jeantel, Alexander and Thatcher in one year. At Point, east of the Mackenzie river five men were wintering and with the ten ships there are altogether about 400 men. When he left Hirschell Island, in April, the whalers were short of supplies, but not so short that they would be able to get along on short rations until the ice broke up and let them out. The ice breaks about the middle of August and after that there is usually about six weeks of open water, which the whalers will take advantage of for whaling. They should reach home about the latter end of this month. The whole catch with all the cats (cat summen was poor and

RADICAL LAND LEGISLATION.

(Bulletin Special.)

London, Sept. 14.—The Times' Wellington correspondent says the government's land proposals, the most drastic in the history of colonial legislation, are creating intense interest in New Zealand, especially the clauses compelling owners to sell within a decade excess of land held beyond $250,000 of unimproved value, and provisions preventing present owners of 1,000 acres of first class land or those of 5,000 acres of second class land adding to their estates by freeholds or leaseholds. The correspondent adds that proposals will be steadily combated.

Good Progress in the Tariff

Revision.—The Preference
Will Be Strengthened.

(Bulletin Special.)

Ottawa, Sept. 13.—Orders have been given to the statistical branch of the customs department to work at night so as to have the trade and navigation returns ready by November. It is the intention of the government to have the tariff schedules ready to be presented to parliament when the house meets either on Nov. 8 or Nov. 15. Very good progress is being made with the tariff revision by the commission. There will be practically a new tariff as provision is made for a maximum, a minimum, and a preferential list. This will give a three-column list instead of one as at present. The 33 1-3 flat preference which is now extended to Britain and certain other countries whose tariffs are as favorable to Canada as Canada's is to them will be changed so that some items may have a higher preferential rate and some lower. In this way the objects of the preference can still be further perfected, by maintaining and directing Canadian trade between Britain and such countries as extend tariff favors to us and keeping a stiff tariff against those countries that place tariff barriers against the Dominion. The new tariff will be framed in the interests of Canada and such tariff must necessarily continue to give as substantial preference as at present to the Motherland who throws her doors wide open to Canadian trade. The increase of Canada's trade with Britain dates from the preference and that feature of the tariff will not be impaired but strengthened.

is in the matter of common honesty. If a Jap finds himself in a business deal in which he is likely to lose money, he has no conscientious scruples about violating his contracts. The Chinese, on the other hand, are honest to the limit. They will fulfill every obligation, no matter what the financial result may be to themselves.

Mr. Macdonald spent a week in Indian Ocean, through the Red Sea and the Suez. They stopped at Aden, the canal town, supposed to be the toughest city in the world, and found it quite as safe as reported. At Aden, the end of the historic Arabian way, they left the steamer and traveled across Italy. Among the places of interest they visited in Italy was the Milan exhibition, where they saw a magnificent Canadian exhibit, one that by comparison with any other country, did Canada great credit. At Posen they saw the excavated prehistoric city where buildings twenty-five hundred years old stand as the occupants left them at the time of the eruption of Vesuvius. In the Italian fields they saw Massey-Harris binders, Hong Kong, which he regards as one of the great cities of the world. From there they went by P. & O. steamer to Penang, Singapore, through the Straits, around India and Ceylon, across the working in the shadow of Roman ruins two thousand years old. In France and Germany they saw all the wonders that are presented to the tourist traveler and in London they saw the traveler at Hampton Meadows on Bank Holiday day, the day of all days when the Britisher is on his holiday. In Ireland they saw all the beauty spots famed for song and story, and coming back to the native Canada they came by the Canadian route, and the beautiful St. Lawrence to Montreal.

Mr. Macdonald says that in all his round-the-world tour Alberta is the country for the young man, the land of opportunity, progress and prosperity, and that what he saw of the Orient he convinced that Edmonton is to become one of the greatest flour milling centres in the world. He and Mrs. Macdonald and Miss Macdonald enjoyed their trip immensely and return home in the best of health.

IN TOUCH WITH THE WEST.

(Toronto Globe.) The relations between Ontario and the west are almost those of the motherland and the colonies. Tens of thousands of the west's sons and daughters of the province go west every year to carve out fortune and find homes on the limitless prairie that swallows them up as the thirsty ground swallows a midsummer shower. The Globe has tried to keep the people of Ontario close in touch with the west and western development by means of the best possible telegraphic service from the chief western centres and by staff correspondence. The western letters that appear every summer in the Globe's columns have an especial value for business men, to whom the unchecked progress of the west means expansion of commerce and the enlargement of factories and warehouses.

A new departure has been made by The Globe in the method of dealing with western affairs. Mr. Frederick A. Acland, for many years one of the most valued members of the staff, has been appointed western editorial representative, with headquarters at Winnipeg. For a time, until more commodious premises can be secured, he will share with the Globe's western business representative the present Globe office in the Merchants' Bank building. It is not the intention that Mr. Acland shall remain all the time in Winnipeg. Wherever affairs of importance in the west demand public notice he will be found. A special feature of his work will be the "anxious days" before each harvest a number of letters on the condition of the country. Letters similar to the admirable series from his pen that appeared during June, July and August of this year will be published from time to time, describing the progress of various sections of the west. The public affairs of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia will be passed in review, and the people in the east will be made acquainted with the point of view of their western editorial representative will be, in short, to give the east a faithful and impartial picture of western life and development. Mr. Acland will enter on his duties immediately.

A Pioneer Settlement

(Correspondence) The settlement at the west end of White Lake is rapidly filling up with settlers who are coming in on their homesteads. The land is nearly all taken up and the people are all satisfied. The west end of the lake is beautiful, with a fine view of the lake for many miles, and will make an ideal summer resort, as it has a beautiful beach, about half a mile in length. Boating and hunting, as well as bathing are all that can be expected. There are over twenty settlers at the west end of the lake which has just been completed and connects with the general supplies in the near future. There will also be a stopping place at that point, where the tired traveler can rest. When you come to the lake do not forget that there is a good wagon road to the west end. The west end is an ideal camping ground where all pleasure seekers will find everything that is needed for camp life.

unless they do unusually well in their short season this summer they will all come out with short catches. As they are all short of supplies, on account of the later arrivals having to share up with the earlier arrivals, none of them will be able to spend next winter in the north.

Mr. Whitaker met Captain Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, and slept two nights on his sloop the Gjoa, in March of this year. Captain Amundsen wintered at King Point with his crew of seven men, one of whom, Lieutenant Weeks, died there in March. Captain Amundsen made a trip overland to Eagle City, Alaska, in January, and brought back mail from the outside world.

The residents of Herschell Island are unusually lucky during the last year in the matter of mail, having received five mails within the twelve months. Three of these came from the south, going down the river from Edmonton, and the other two from the Yukon. One of these was brought by Captain Amundsen and the other by the Mounted Police who made the trip overland from Dawson to Herschell Island, a distance of 559 miles. It took the police 57 days to make the trip and they had a pretty bad time of it.

Mr. Whitaker brings news of the death of J. Slean, a former Edmonton man who has been fur-trading in the north for three years for Nagel & Hyslop. Mr. Slean died of consumption at Port Good Hope on July 21st. On the 22nd of July Mr. Whitaker met Stefansson, the young Icelandic explorer who went north from Edmonton to meet the Anglo-American Arctic expedition to the H. B. C. ship, the packet when Mr. Whitaker met him at Port Good Hope, and he sent down a lot of photographic films which are being developed today at Castor's art gallery.

Mr. Whitaker saw Mr. Hyslop, of Nagel & Hyslop, on the way down at Port McMurray, as he was coming up. Swiggart was also at McMurray with a scow load of furs coming up the river. Mr. Whitaker describes Herschell Island as being a bleak and barren island in the Arctic, on which he, his family, and Captain Hayward, with two other policemen, are the only Circasian residents. In the winter it is utterly cold. The thermometer does not register as many degrees of frost as further inland, but the winds off the Arctic ocean are terribly cold. Last winter the coldest day was 49 degrees below zero, the coldest day since Mr. Whitaker went north. At Fort MacPherson, the furthest north of the Hudson's Bay posts, the thermometer registered 62 degrees below zero in January this year, but even that was not so cold as at Herschell Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitaker, and their daughter left Herschell Island in April and made their way over the ice to Fort MacPherson where they waited for the Hudson's Bay steamer. It took them ten weeks travelling to reach Edmonton. They are at the Windsor Hotel, and will spend a few days in the city after which they will leave for Toronto. They will not go north again until next summer.

A TIMELY APPOINTMENT
Regina Leader: The appointment of H. A. Drury, of the Railway Commission, as engineer for Western Canada, with headquarters in Winnipeg, with powers to enforce the railway accident occurring in his district, is not only timely, but absolutely necessary under existing conditions.

Accidents in the West are not only far too frequent, but the details concerning them vouchsafed by an automatic railway company to the press are far too meagre. The public has a right to be informed fully at the very earliest possible moment of every accident that happens, the cause of the accident, the injured and wounded, etc. At the present time the policy adopted by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company with regard to wrecks in its system is a policy of suppression of facts, and any facts that it does not condescend to hand out for publication at any time are invariably of the scantiest description.

CIVIC UTILITIES AND THEIR PATRONS

Alderman Calhoun has a good case in protesting against the revenue from civic enterprises being taken for capital expenditures. The most notable instance of this practice was the application of $10,000 surplus from the electric light operations to pay for extensions to the system, and it was the proposal to extract a further sum from the revenues of this enterprise for expenditure on capital account which drew the protest from Alderman Calhoun.

The surplus from a municipal enterprise of course belongs to the city and on the surface it may not appear to make any material difference whether the $10,000 were taken from the revenue of the lighting system or whether this were placed in the coffers of the city and an equal sum taken therefrom to pay for the extensions. But this appearance is only on the surface and it does make a difference and a very material difference to those ratepayers who have contributed to the surplus. And what is worse, if it were extended into a practice it would prevent the users of the system being given the reductions to which they are entitled by reason of the profitable operation of the system.

The $10,000 in question represents the sum unnecessarily collected from the users of the electric light plant last year and if this sum be expended in extensions to the plant the result is the same as if a tax had been placed on a certain number of citizens last year to create an asset belonging to all the citizens collectively. And if this were made the practice there would be not only a similarity of results but the processes would be identical. If the practice were continued for ten years the patrons of the system would then have invested $100,000 in extending the system. But would they have any greater legal interest in the plant than the citizens who had not contributed a cent toward its revenue? The situation would then be that the patrons of the system had not only paid for the up-keep of the plant and the operating expenses, but had bought the plant itself, except that they received no certificate. And the only man who would have escaped the burden of the operation would be the man who had contributed nothing to the support of the system or the cost of the extensions, but whose interests in the plant had been enhanced quite as much as those of the ratepayer who had contributed monthly to its revenues. Edmonton's municipal system is patterned after the joint stock company, the ratepayers of the city representing shareholders in the company. Under what circumstances would the directors of a company be permitted to levy a special tax on a certain portion of the shareholders for extending the plant of the company? Yet this is exactly the principle involved in the present proposal and this principle is not affected by the circumstance that the shareholders so taxed are consumers of the product of the company's plant or that the tax levied on them is collected indirectly, as the price of such product. The lighting plant is the property of all the burgesses; all the burgesses therefore should bear a portion of its cost and share fairly in the results of its operation.

Instead of maintaining rates for service which are unnecessarily high and consuming the surpluses so produced in capital expenditures the rates should be lowered when it is found that the amount collected is more than meets the legitimate fixed charges on the enterprise. Operating expenses, interest, an allowance for depreciation of the plant, these should be met annually from the revenues of each enterprise together with a reasonable sum to be held for emergencies; but the balance represents an amount unnecessarily taken from the patrons of the system. This amount once taken cannot conveniently be returned but the rates should be promptly lowered to avoid collecting a similar sum during the next year. Otherwise those who patronize the civic enterprises in the years when they most need patronage are being taxed not only for the up-keep and operation of the plants but are being forced to pay for the plants themselves—without receiving the plants. A poor way this to encourage citizens to use the services and an equally poor way to exemplify the advantages of a municipal ownership.

THE FACTS VERSUS THE THEORY

Signs are not wanting at odd times that the light is breaking even on the Mall and Empire and in unexpected corners of that paper appear gleams of a clearer understanding of public affairs than glimmers on the editorial page. The Mall publishes a page every Saturday devoted to the "Industrial Progress of Canada." As the Mall's public policy is framed with a peculiar zeal for the welfare of Canadian industries and a corresponding ardor for proving that this welfare is impossible under the present tariff we should expect to find this "Industrial" page a kind of "blue ruin" department, crammed with stories of bankruptcies, unemployed men and starving women. It is somewhat relieving therefore to find the page of Saturday last opening in the following strain:

Americans are waking up to the tremendous development which is going on in Canadian trade. The New York Sun says: "The fiscal year just closed was for Canada the greatest in the history of her commerce."

The Philadelphia Record has this to say: "The foreign trade of Canada, without the aid of robber trusts to curse it, amounted last fiscal year to $22,393,939, against $2,860,000,000 for the United States. But Canada with 6,990,599 inhabitants, has only one-fourteenth of the population of this country. While the foreign trade of the United States amounted last year to 25¢ per head of the population, that of Canada amounted to 19¢ per head. The exports of the Canadians increased last year $44,000,000, or $1 a head, and the exports of this country increased in the same time $2.69."

The Mall does not explain of course that the Philadelphia Record is published in a country favored by its ideal tariff, while the country to whose marvelous progress, the Record bears this splendid testimony languishes without "adequate protection." The Mall may have considered the explanation unnecessary, but it would have supplied the climax to a decidedly humorous situation.

The Mall, however, is not satisfied with quotations from the journals of a high tariff country testifying to the marvelous prosperity of a low-tariff country, and offers the following on its own account: While the "Industrial" page is continuous increasing by leaps and bounds and outstripping its neighbors, its home trade expanded so that the manufacturers had a hard time meeting the demand. Everybody was working, labor was scarce, wages were high and the manufacturer was prosperous.

While the "Industrial" page is constrained to bear witness in this manner to the prosperity of Canadian industries under the present moderate tariff the editorial page will find considerable occupation in persuading either the manufacturers or the public that these industries are languishing for want of "adequate protection" or anything else.

CURRENT COMMENT

Inquiry was made at the Bulletin office today for a United States consul. There is no U. S. consul in Edmonton. There is one in Calgary. It is the only no what a branch of the United States consular service was established in the capital city of the province. It may be said in this regard, however, that since the consular service of the United States has become a branch of the civil service of the nation, it is more difficult to have a consular appointment.

Mr. Pace should make a good commissioner of public works. He has had experience in lines of work similar to that of the department over which he will preside, and what is of more importance, he has had experience both in managing a large business enterprise and in dealing with the public. But the value of the work he will do will depend very largely on the nature of the treatment he receives from the council. Neither Mr. Pace nor any other man can faithfully, fearlessly and capably discharge the duties of this position if he be made the victim of aldermanic badgering, nor can he do so unless he be supported by the loyal cooperation of the council. Let the council take a broad view of the matter; let them expect and desire the new commissioner to make good, accompanying their instructions with explicit authority and look to the general result, disregarding ineffectual details.

THE MANAGER'S MESSAGE

The Manager of the Semi-Ready Wardrobe says that the success of the Semi-Ready does not need his heralding; its universal adoption is proved by the many imitations and counterfeits which are offered to the public. Every real Semi-Ready garment has the trade mark and price shown on the inside pocket, and there is no excuse for the man who allows himself to be deceived.

"I am sending on special orders for suits every week. These are Semi-Ready garments made by measurement, and they are tailored as no merchant tailor can possibly tailor clothes. Ten days in the usual time to full order for 'special' suits. 'I wish I could take my patrons to see the Semi-Ready workshops. They are on the side of Mount Royal, far away from the crowded factory district, and the expert tailors are at work there throughout the year.'

PRICE TOO LOW
(Bulletin Special)

Ottawa, Sept. 13.—The lowest tender for St. Andrews Rapids work is a Montreal firm. The price, however, is said to be so low that the work could not be done for the amount. This figure is away below departmental estimate.

Lethbridge News.—The Ellison Milling Co. have deposited $1,000 bond for the carrying out of their agreement with the city for the construction of a flour mill here. The building will be suitable for a capacity of 500 bbls. per day. Whether the machinery to be installed at first will be of 300 bbls. or 500 bbls. capacity is not settled, but if the former is decided upon for the present, further machinery will subsequently be put in to raise the capacity to 500 bbls.

Macleod Gazette.—The Maitlen test has been applied to all the horses purchased by Col. Bridges and Capt. Martin of the Imperial remount office for the British army. The test was ordered by the Dominion department of agriculture. Not one single re-action occurred and as the horses were purchased in every part of the province it completely vindicates the stand of Alberta horsemen who contend that glanders is not prevalent in the west.

J. M. HART LOSES WALLET

Winnipeg Free Press.—A strange story was told in Montreal by a victim of pickpockets, who are operating in the vicinity of the railway stations and for whom the city detectives and also the Canadian Pacific Railway detectives of that city are on the lookout. Mr. J. M. Hart, the proprietor of a hotel in Edmonton arrived in Montreal on Saturday. At Winnipeg, on the way down, a young man entered the train and made a row with Mr. Hart over the occupancy of a certain berth. He leaned over Mr. Hart, pretending to pick something up, and then stated that he was going to ask for the intervention of the conductor. He left, but never came back, much to the sorrow of Mr. Hart, who, when he arrived in Montreal, found that he had been relieved of $300 in cash and negotiable notes to the value of $15,000 and a ring worth about $250. On his arrival in Montreal he notified the detectives of both the C.P.R. and the city force. Mr. Hart left for Amherst, N.S., where he is going to look after the estate of his mother.

ANOTHER STRING OF HOTELS

Montreal, Sept. 8.—The Grand Trunk Railway is going into the hotel business, much on the same lines as the C.P.R.

In the office of C. M. Hayes, second vice-president of the Grand Trunk, are today plans for the erection of a new Bonaventure depot and hotel.

At the present the railway owns practically all the land in the immediate vicinity of their station, and it is upon this property that the new structure will stand.

It is stated that the hotel when completed will be one of the finest on the continent and will accommodate eight hundred guests. This is thought to be but the beginning of a general movement of not only the Grand Trunk but the Grand Trunk Pacific as well, so that upon both systems there will be a system of fine hotels stretching throughout the Dominion.

Do You Really Want to Know the West

(Toronto Saturday Night.)

One is decidedly embarrassed with riches in attempting in one short article to say anything regarding the Canadian West that will be deserving of any large measure of interest in the East; yet I feel that no occasion should be lost that serves to make Canadians generally familiar with at least the main features of the new and greater Canada that lies beyond the great, and I welcome, therefore, an invitation to discuss the subject briefly in these columns.

One must distinguish, in the first place, between the two great natural divisions of the West, separated from each other by that giant chain of mountains which contain the springs and sources of the noble and intricate systems of the continent. The two divisions differ essentially from each other. East of the mountains the dominant, all pervading feature is agriculture; in the mountains and west of them the leading industry is mining. Without straining at alliteration, one may say that the wealth of the plains is represented by crops and cattle, that of the mountains and beyond by coal and copper.

That does not tell all the story, of course. In British Columbia alone the last decade has seen progress so amazing and diversified that one might fill a volume in recording it, but to which I can only refer in passing. To coal and copper may be added lead and lumber, fish and fruit, on all of which great industries have been established, and the further inevitable expansion of which as labor and capital are attracted to this great province—the area of which alone, be it remembered, equals that of Great Britain and France or Germany combined—will provide substantial livelihood for hundreds of thousands of workmen, and will no doubt enrich a large proportion of those who go in as pioneers, possessed of capital in the form of either money or labor. Perhaps the populous and delightful city of Vancouver, with its spacious streets and handsome residences, its huge docks and its varied industries, its three daily newspapers, and its 45,000 people—all a dazzling transformation from the primeval forest of 20 years ago—is the best single example I can cite of the prosperity and stability, the rich reward for enterprise and industry that lie in Canada beyond the mountains.

But it is, after all, to the great plains of Canada that the eyes of the world are turned today, and it is here, east of the mountains, that we find the land which Canadians have especially in mind today when they speak of the West. Here is taking place before our eyes one of the most wonderful migrations in the history of the world. Here are coming, fast as ships and trains can bring them, in ever increasing numbers, but numbers that already reach the startling figure of almost two hundred thousand yearly, yeomen and tradesmen, artisans and laborers, men of wealth and men of no wealth, men of every occupation, and men of no occupation, married and single, bachelors and spinners, drawn from every white race in the world. Most of all, they are coming, and most happy is it so, from the historic islands that cradled our own race, and from across the invisible boundary line that parts us politically from our kinsmen of the same race on this continent. More than half the immigrants of the past year came from these two sources, and we may therefore feel pretty sure that the stock of Canada that is to be will lack nothing of the strong fibre and sterling qualities that distinguished the older branches of the common race, while on the other hand, as it assimilates in the great crucible of the West the gathered elements from the world at large, it will obtain a more composite and many-sided character in which perhaps a larger place than at present obtains will be given to the romantic and picturesque side of life. With these newcomers from other lands, moreover, our own young men from the East, from the provinces down by the sea, from ancient Quebec, and from our own Ontario, are going in as doctors and lawyers, teachers and journalists, merchants and manufacturers, the leaders generally in enterprise and development, in politics and social life, carrying with them in all their integrity those British ideals of law and order, those principles of enlightened democracy, which in their operation in older Canada for half a century, has made this country one of the chosen communities of the earth.

Now let us see the land where all these races meet on common ground without fear or favor to any nationality. A thousand miles from Winnipeg westward, almost a thousand miles from the American boundary northward, extends the great plateau of black, fertile soil, which needs but to be tilled with a plough to laugh prodigiously with a harvest. Forty years ago Sir William Butler, a British officer yet living and holding high office in the Imperial service, wrote of the country as "The Great Lone Land." Thirty years ago it was still given over to the Indian and the buffalo. Twenty years ago the railway arrived, a streak of steel from ocean to ocean, and awoke the plains from their long age of solitude. Ten years ago a few thousand settlers were doubtfully pioneering on carefully selected lands along the railroad. Five years ago the great migration came with a rush, and year by year the wave of settlement has increased in size and strength, and rolled farther and farther west and north, finding always the same matchless soil, and a climate unrivalled in producing health and vigor, whether in man or plant. The wheat line, which at first crept cautiously along the southern boundary, gradually moved northwesterly, following the isothermal lines, until the great valley of the Peace River was reached, a thousand miles north of the boundary, and still the limit of the wheat area is not touched. Already a million of people live in the three provinces of the plains, half of them in the oldest and smallest of the three, Manitoba, which, because it is only 116,000 square miles in area, a paltry piece of the size of Great Britain and Ireland, has been dubbed "a postage stamp of a province." The two larger and younger provinces, so young that the question of capitals still raises sore feelings, contain between them half a million square miles, and about the same number of human beings, or one to a square mile. In Belgium, it may be remembered, the most thickly settled country in Europe, the density of population to the square mile is between five and six hundred. Naturally, most of the population is agricultural in these three provinces, and farms run larger there than in new countries where land is less abundant and more costly. The average settler takes his quarter section of 160 acres and frequently adds another or two others to it as he prospers in life. Occasionally, too, we meet great farms covering one, two, or three thousand acres, these being usually the enterprises of the wealthier American settlers who have come over to us. In spite of these great farms and the large average of the smaller farms, so slight is the land yet made by settlers on the total area that it does not constitute more than ten per cent. in Manitoba and five per cent. in Alberta and Saskatchewan. Those, therefore, who, looking at the development taking place today, and realizing the immense resources of the west, declare their conviction that the country is even now at the beginning, only of a great era of progress and prosperity, are probably well within the limits of reason, and are making no idle boast.

Needless to say, the first thin streak of steel that heralded the making of the West has proved the C.P.R., itself built amid many qualms as to ultimate paying power, and half political in its original scope, gradually developed from other lands, moreover, our own young men from the East, from the provinces down by the sea, from ancient Quebec, and from our own Ontario, are going in as doctors and lawyers, teachers and journalists, merchants and manufacturers, the leaders generally in enterprise and development, in politics and social life, carrying with them in all their integrity those British ideals of law and order, those principles of enlightened democracy, which in their operation in older Canada for half a century, has made this country one of the chosen communities of the earth.

How the crop itself has progressed with the settlement of the country is an old story, but we may see clearly in glancing back a few years. The total wheat crop for the five years from 1890 to 1894 was 83,000,000 bushels; this came from Manitoba alone, the provinces further west hardly figuring then as wheat producers. The single crop of 1905 equalled that of the five years in question, and this year there is every indication that the harvest will reach higher figures yet. The magnitude of a wheat crop of between eighty and ninety millions for a population of barely a million is better realized when we remember that the United Kingdom, with forty-two millions of people, produces only about fifty millions. Here we are undoubtedly destined to see "great expansion on the part of Canada, and may reasonably expect this great crop to be doubled or trebled within ten or fifteen years, so that as the wheat exports of the United States decline with the increase of its own population, we shall see our own wheat take its place in the British market.

CANADIAN MANUFACTURERS' CONVENTION (Toronto Globe.)

It is a fitting tribute to the west that the annual convention of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association should this year be held in the capital of western Canada. It is only by an actual sight of the remarkable developments now in progress beyond the lakes that our manufacturers can grasp the full possibilities for expansion that this section of the Dominion affords. We are not by any means among those who believe it to be the duty of the west to buy the manufactures of the east, but we do most emphatically regard it as the duty of the eastern manufacturer to acquire himself thoroughly with the conditions of the west, and to make a good strong bid to secure a liberal share of the trade. That strong bid is best made, not by pulling wires at Ottawa to have the tariff stiffened, but by learning to make precisely the article that is wanted, and by being on hand to supply it. The old trouble of extravagant freight rates will be lessened with the appearance of vigorous competition among rival lines, and our manufacturers will no doubt find a general disposition to give preference to the Canadian article, other things being equal.

The convention assembles in Winnipeg on the seventeenth of September, and extends over three days. This event is in itself of great significance, but the extended tour that follows the convention is more noteworthy still. Leaving Winnipeg on Thursday, the twentieth, the delegates will proceed along the main line of the Canadian Pacific railway to the coast, stopping at the thriving cities of Regina, Moose Jaw, and Calgary, at the mountain hostilities at Banff, where two evenings and a day will be passed, and at the port of Vancouver. A night will be spent at the picturesque capital of British Columbia, and the delegates will return to Winnipeg by way of Calgary and the Canadian Northern. A new glimpse of the splendid scenery of the Rockies will be obtained at Glacier on the eastward trip. Along the Canadian Northern the delegates will stop at Edmonton, Battleford, Kansas, Dauphin and Neepawa, and east of Winnipeg at Keokau, Fort William and Port Arthur.

The trip seems to have been well arranged, with a view to affording the maximum degree of both profit and pleasure, and the manufacturers, we doubt not, will return like giants refreshed, and inspired by what they have seen, to forge new industrial links between east and west. Such gatherings and tours as that of the Canadian manufacturers are in every way to be commended, and do much toward emphasizing the essential unity of the Canadian confederation.

NELSON MURDER

Man Now Under Arrest Charged With Most Serious Crime

Creston, Sept. 11.—Hugh McGarvey is here at 9.30 this morning from injuries received in an assault made upon him by Lachlan Bruce last Monday night.

Bruce is now a prisoner in the provincial jail at Nelson and he may have to stand his trial for wilful murder.

Coroner E. C. Arthur, of Nelson, is expected to arrive here tomorrow for the purpose of holding a postmortem and subsequently an inquest.

Last Monday night Lachlan Bruce, who worked at Leask's sawmill above the Goat river canyon, called at Hugh McGarvey's shack. McGarvey is the night watchman on the C.P.R. and lives right at the canyon. Bruce was cordially invited to come into the shack. He had been there shortly before McGarvey, though he noticed the man had been drinking, thought he was all right. On the second visit Bruce asked if he could stay all night and be up in the morning in time for work at the mill. McGarvey assented, not being sleepy gave Bruce his own bed to sleep in. Some time about 4 o'clock Tuesday morning McGarvey waked Bruce up and told him it was time for him to start out for the sawmill.

Bruce got up in a thoroughly bad humor and began making a lot of senseless accusations against McGarvey but afterwards withdrew them and shook hands with McGarvey in token of friendship. He started off for the mill but soon came back again and asked permission to stop for a while longer.

On coming in the shack the second time Bruce struck McGarvey on the side of the head and although McGarvey is an old man of 65 years of age, continued to violently abuse him and viciously prostrated the old man.

After he had assaulted the old man Bruce left him lying on the ground, and went off to work at the sawmill.

When McGarvey recovered sufficiently to stand up he started off to walk the five miles to Creston. He reached here with great difficulty, and reported the outrage to Provincial Constable Joseph Wilson, who promptly proceeded to Leask's sawmill, and arrested Bruce. Later Bruce was taken to the provincial jail at Nelson for safe keeping.

Dr. Green of Cranbrook, and Dr. Hope of Creston, were sent for and McGarvey placed under their care. His condition was found to be very critical as in addition to three ribs broken and many bruises, the poor old man was found to be suffering from pneumonia, and it was thought that he had but a scant chance for life. He died this morning as above stated and an official inquiry will now be had into the whole matter.

NORMALITES.

Calgary Albertan.—On Monday evening an exceedingly successful entertainment was given at Knox church, when the Westminster guild opened its season's work. The programme for the evening was in charge of the social committee of the Guild and the members of this committee are to be heartily congratulated on the result of their well planned endeavors to promote sociability and pleasure.

The Normalites of the city had received a special invitation to the gathering, and they were most interesting and appreciative guests.

By means of introduction, cards in the hands of Miss Hatfield and L. Wilson, the visitors and hosts and hostesses very speedily became acquainted in unconventional fashion. An excellent programme of music had been arranged, the pianists being Mrs. Monilaws, Mrs. Pirie, Mrs. Mills and Misses Hatfield and S. J. Smith. Impromptu quartettes, which were looked after by Misses Lawr and Jessie Smith, provoked much mirth, and some harmony with "topits" in the hands of Misses McKee and Stewart, proved very satisfactory.

The basement of the church where refreshments were served, was gaily decorated with bunting and flowers, the main centre piece of the refreshment booth being a huge pyramid and divans and cosy corners scattered about the room gave it a very homelike appearance and added greatly to the enjoyment of the delicious cups of tea.

To the following ladies and gentlemen forming the social committee great praise is due for this eminently successful entertainment, Mrs. W. E. Forsythe, vice president; Mrs. Cafferty, Misses Stewart, McKee, Hatfield, Sutherland, Lawr, Lawson, and Smith, and Messrs. McMartin, Garrett, Holm, Ore, Flackwood, Wilson, Dorringer, and Ballantyne.

The Westminster Guild officers for the coming season have been appointed as follows:

Hon. Pres.—Rev. J. A. Clark.
President—E. D. McMartin.
Vice President of Devotional Committee—Mrs. Forsythe.
Secretaries—Miss Nellie Sutherland.
Corresponding Secretary—Miss Jessie Smith.
Treasurer—A. Dorringer.
Pianists—Mrs. Monilaws, Miss Hatfield.

The vice-presidents of the educational and missionary committees are not yet appointed.

The Guild proposes to hold a bright, informal, half hour service after church on Sunday evenings during the winter months.

is selling rapidly, and if you want to secure some of the magnificent view property you must hurry up. If you knew the class of people who have bought in this beautiful sub-division you would probably not hesitate to invest also. Why not then call at our office, see the list of purchasers during the past three days, let us drive you over the ground and be in a position to judge for yourself. Don't you think that good property like this will in a short time be at a premium when you consider that it adjoins the LARGEST CITY PARK?

We do. And more, where can you buy such property with open RIVER VIEW at such prices? Do you own a map of the city? If not, call at our office and get one. Measure the distances and you will find (possibly to your astonishment) that the distance from the Alberta Hotel to the corner of this Park is the same as the distance to Sixteenth Street West. On 16th St. West view lots are selling today at over $2000 each, while we offer view lots adjoining this, the largest Park of the city, at the extremely reasonable figure of $175 upwards. Remember these are view lots. We have lots all the way from $90.00 upwards.

River View Property

will in a very short time be at a premium and as we remarked some of Edmonton's most conservative buyers have invested. Many of these purchasers are people presently residing in the West End, and have lived in Edmonton long enough to know good things in the realty market. We advise you to get in on the ground floor on this fine proposition and can commend the purchase as one certain to bring good returns to the investor.

A STRATHCONA MAN'S VIEW

Editor Bulletin:
I have been reading with deep interest everything that has been published in the various newspapers of Edmonton and Strathcona on the railway question, and I have given the subject a great deal of thought, and since matters are in the shape they seem to be, I want to offer a few suggestions. I know that my opinion may go for a very little with that class of people who look at the subject of the entrance of these railways in either towns, with a biased sight, but I have reason to believe, and do believe, that as a citizen for ten years in Strathcona, who has always looked with great pleasure on the progress and growth of both Edmonton and Strathcona, that my opinion with the general run of ratepayers, will be of sufficient importance to at least be given a fair, impartial and unbiased thought.

Now, it seems to me that certain parties in Edmonton, either having, or assuming to have the power to do so, have in their blindness and zeal to, as they think, build up Edmonton at the expense of Strathcona entered into contracts and agreements, which are liable to get the city of Edmonton into expensive litigation, and also to cost them a large amount of money to be expended for the right of way of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway from the east to the west end of their city, which money might a great deal better, if expended at all, be expended in a different manner. Their theory is, that by having the Grand Trunk Pacific enter into Edmonton at the east end, avoid unnecessary cutting up of the city, but when they are compelled to buy a right of way through the city, independent of the Canadian Northern, for use by the Grand Trunk Pacific, it seems to me that this point is not well taken, besides that, it seems to me that they have lost sight of the equity of the situation, when they are attempting to protect the west end of the city at the expense of the east end.

I want to ask these gentlemen, if the home of any citizen, be he rich or poor, is not as dear to him as one part of the city as that of the other, and is he not entitled to the same respect and consideration?

Now the suggestion I wish to make seems to me to be reasonable, and it is this, that they all turn in and use their influence to have the Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian Pacific come into their city over the high level bridge, and use the same track, through the main part of their city together, joining with the Canadian Northern, and having one grand union depot. Now, I know there are those in Edmonton who will say at once that I am saying two words for Strathcona, and one for Edmonton, but I do not care a snap for what they may say now, but they can mark my words, that in two years from now, that unless this suggestion is heeded, they will find it was a good one. Let them adopt this policy, and then they have a leg to stand on when they go before the Commissioners asking that these railways be required to build a subway under or bridges over, their main business streets, in order to avoid danger, and to obviate interference with business traffic. This will avoid cutting up their city more than any other plan which they can adopt. The same rule applies to Strathcona. While we are not as large as Edmonton, we think we have a thriving, growing, good town, and that our interests are so closely allied with that of the city of Edmonton, that the one cannot possibly thrive without the other being benefited, in a greater or lesser degree, and the one cannot make mistakes that do not redound to the discredit of the other. Some may say, "It will help Strathcona"; of course it will help Strathcona. No one needs to suppose that I am going to offer suggestion that will cut my own throat, but I am here to say to the people of Edmonton, that when you help Strathcona, you help yourself, and when you hurt Strathcona, you are bound to feel the pang of pain.

There is no reason in the world why the people of these two towns should not live together in harmony, unity and peace. There is no reason why they should not grow together and pull together for the common weal, and when I suggest this plan by which the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Pacific may be asked to use one track through both towns, and use the same bridge, and in eight months or two years from the present time, for the two cities to be joined together, with a line of electric railways running between. It seems to me that it would, and I say this with all due respect to every citizen of both towns, who have taken an interest in the solution of this great problem.

Remember, gentlemen, that you are not building for today or tomorrow, but let us hope that we are building for our children and our children's children who are to come after us and for all time to follow. Throw aside for once all prejudice and act in this great important matter for the best interest of the entire community. I have reason to believe, and do believe, that with the proper effort on the part of the citizens of both towns, this arrangement could be brought about, and if so, I believe that in years to come it will redound to the credit of the citizens of both places, and be a saving of as great many hundreds of thousands of dollars to them, not only in cost in the first instance, but by way of the danger accompanying crossings in cities, and the damage suits incidental thereto.

Now, in making this appeal, I am asking for the ear of the ordinary citizen and ratepayer. I know that it will not meet with the approbation of a few men who are interested in speculation, and have got this railway question twisted out of all reasonable shape, in order to benefit their own private, selfish schemes, but it seems to me, that the citizens of Edmonton have too much interest in the welfare of their city to be ruled by this class of people.

Yours truly,
J. Y. TIPTON.
